Product design

Suction foam head

A foam surface with a suction channel for oral care.

Integrated suction path

Internal suction pathway and connection to the suction line.

Cleaning and suction in one tool

The Abadis oral suction foam swab is being developed for patients who need assisted oral care, following assessment by a healthcare professional.

01 Gentle contact with oral tissues

The foam head is intended for cleaning oral tissues and collecting surface debris.

02 Internal suction pathway

The internal channel provides a route for fluids from the swab head to the suction line.

03 Single use

After use, dispose of the product according to the healthcare facility's procedures.
Do not reuse.
